OUTDOOR EXTRAS

Outdoor structures like this beautiful pergola define a specific space for outdoor grilling. This one was built in the foothills west of Loveland. The owner selected rough sawn cedar timbers which add character to their patio and barbeque area. The simple design is attractive, yet will withstand the high winds known to frequent the area.

Retaining walls can also be attractive. The above pergola builder had us build them a retaining wall that would match the pergola yet be sturdy enough to solve their erosion problem in the garden area. It looks great and compliments the landscape.

Flower pots are a wonderful and simple addition to any barn and can be added under windows.
